[NUMB. 296.]

Containing the freſheſt Advices, both Foreign and Domeſtic.

TUESDAY, JULY 30, 1771.

LONDON, MAY 7.

IT is reported with great confidence, that a very extraordinary preferment was lately offered to Serjeant Glynn, which he nobly refuſed, though it was tendered to him at the inſtance of a Great Perſonage.

The Hon. Charles James Fox will ſoon be promoted to a very important office in adminiſtration.

Parſon Horne is ſo highly in eſteem with the premier, that he has twice been admitted to his levies!

About a week ſince Mr. Wilkes and ſome of his friends were paſſing the evening together, when the facetious Alderman jocularly ſaid, "Pray, with ſubmiſſion to Lord Bute, the Duke of Grafton, and Lord North, what bad conſequences have flowed from the North Briton, No. 45, and the ſuppreſſion of General Warrants? A great many (replied a Gentleman preſent in the ſame ſtrain) all the bawdy is wiped off the walls, and in its place we ſee nothing but Wilkes and Liberty."

MAY 8. Preparations are now making at the Queen's palace for her Majeſty's lying-in, a curious ſtate cradle is brought into the apartments, and the nurſes, &c. are ordered to be in readineſs at the firſt notice.

Monday Mr. Seymour moved that the Committee appointed to enquire into the cauſe of the riots might make a report. In the courſe of his ſpeech he reproached Mr. Wedderburne who had moved that Committee; and ſaid that there was no occaſion for a Committeee of inquiry to find out the cauſe of Mr. Wedderburne's deſertion of his friends and profeſſions; he ſaid he did not accuſe Mr. Wedderburne of deſerting his principles; he believed Mr. Wedderburne never had, never could deſert any principles.----Mr. Wedderburne replied nothing to the reproaches, but harangued about riots in general.

Sir George Saville obſerved that it had been ſaid of Mr. Wedderburne's countrymen, that when they quitted their own country, they always went as far ſouth as they could: now Sir George ſaid, this was not altogether true with reſpect to Mr. Wedderburne, for that Gentleman had ſtopped in Yorkſhire, where he had gained ſome reputation by taking a very warm part in oppoſition to a moſt abandoned adminiſtration. He ſaid, that ſince that time Mr. [illegible] place he beſt knew; what he had loſt by it none could tell but thoſe who feel the ſelf reproach of baſe actions and the loſs of ſelf-approbation. He ſaid Mr. Wedderburne had the other day oppoſed very ably the Divorce Bill, which was to prevent the adulterer from marrying the adultreſs. Sir George ſaid he was ſurpriſed at it becauſe this looked a little like conſiſtency in Mr. Wedderburne; for that Mr. Wedderburne himſelf, who was married not long ago to the cauſe of the people, had lately committed adultery with the Miniſtry, and ſince married the offending party.

Monday was held at Merchant Taylors Hall, the annual grand feaſt of the antient and honourable Society of free and accepted Maſons, when his Grace the Duke of Beaufort was continued Grand Maſter for the enſuing year. Several of the nobility and other perſons of diſtinction attended on the occaſion.

MAY 9. It is ſaid that a certain ſpeech was penned by a learned Judge, who has not been a great while in his preſent ſituation; but is well known, and deſervedly eſteemed for his writings.

Yeſterday morning the crown was privately ſent for from the Tower to the Houſe of Lords. At the ſame time the Lord-Mayor received a letter from a member of parliament, that the Houſe would riſe that day; immediately ſummonſes were iſſued out to all the Common-councilmen to meet at Guildhall, in order to go from thence to the Tower. Orders were alſo ſent to the Artillery Company to be under arms in the Artillery-ground at 12 o'clock, and to march to Tower-hill. On the Lord-Mayor and Mr. Oliver being brought to the Tower-gate, by the proper officer of that fortreſs, they were received with great acclamations. Twenty-one pieces of cannon were fired by the Artillery company on Tower-hill, when the proceſſion began, which was about half an hour paſt three, nearly as follows; The Artillery company, with muſic playing, drums beating, and colours flying. The City Marſhal on horſeback, followed by the Lord-Mayor's houſhold, &c. two and two. In carriages, the Sheriffs. Several of the Ardermen in their ſcarlet gowns. The Committee of the Common-council for conducting the buſineſs of the Lord-Mayor, &c. The ſtate coach, with the Lord-Mayor and Mr. Alderman Oliver in their ſcarlet gowns. A great number of the Common-council in their mazarine gowns.

Tower-hill, and all the ſtreets, from the Tower to the Manſion-houſe, were covered with reſpectable citizens, who ſtrove to outvie each other in plaudits.

When the Lord-Mayor and Mr. Oliver got out of the ſtate coach at the Manſion-houſe ſteps, the committee, who had alighted and gone in at a private door, met them and conducted them into the houſe, amidſt the loudeſt acclamations of the people.

The bells upon this occaſion rang throughout London, and a general joy prevailed; every teſtimony that could be given of univerſal approbation of the noble and ſpirited conduct of the two Magiſtrates, was forcibly expreſſed. At night the names of Crosby and Oliver re-echoed through every ſtreet.

On account of the uncertainty of his Majeſty's going to the Houſe yeſterday, there were but few attendants; and a few mean looking perſons hallowed, which was ſoon ſilenced, by the populace crying out, "No hired mob."

It is a certain fact, that early yeſterday morning, ſeveral miniſterial agents went to Spitalfields, and hired above 600 weavers, and others, at half a crown each, to huzza a great perſonage yeſterday in St. James's-park.

In the return from the Houſe, his Majeſty was hiſſed all along the park.

To the officers of the third regiment of guards on duty in the Tower.

"Gentlemen, Had not ſlander been buſy, I ſhould have contented myſelf with a perſonal acknowledgment; but after the illiberal abuſe which has been caſt upon you moſt unjuſtly, I cannot be ſatisfied without thus returning you my thanks, for the great civility and politeneſs with which I have been treated by every one of you, during my impriſonment in the Tower.

I am, yours, &c. RICHARD OLIVER.

Friday afternoon, the Judges being aſſembled in the Houſe of Lords for the purpoſe of giving their opinions in Lord Chatham's appeal, Lord Chief Baron Parker, and Lord Chief Juſtice Manſfield, in the name of the reſt (who were unanimous) gave in their opinions, which they ſupported by a number of caſes, 'that had the words, heirs male of the body of Leonora Ann Pynſent been uſed in the will, it was a collective name that deſcribed all the iſſue, that would be in favour of the reſpondent; but as no ſuch contingency happened, they were unanimous in concurring that the limitation, with the remainder over to the reſpondent, was not good in law.'

Upon which the Lord Chancellor put the following queſtion; "Is it your Lordſhips opinion that the Decree of the Maſter of the Rolls, in favour of the Appellant, ſhould be confirmed or not." To which their Lordſhips were unanimous in the affirmative.

Lord Chatham firſt gained his appeal in law before the Maſter of the Rolls, againſt the heirs of Sir William Pynſent, ſome time ſince, and afterwards in an appeal in which Henry Daw Toſhill, Eſq; one of the heirs at law, and who was in this cauſe one of the reſpondents, was then plaintiff, caſt his Lordſhip before the Lords Commiſſioners of the Seal in the Court of Chancery, in 10,000l. but his Lordſhip has now gained the decree before given by the Maſter of the Rolls, ſo that the affair remains finally decided in favour of Lord Chatham.

A great perſonage when he was told of the reverſal of the decree in favour of Lord Chatham, obſerved, That it reflected honour upon Lord Camden to have his decree confirmed by the unanimous voice of the Judges.

Certain advices came yeſterday to the India-Houſe, that the ſhip Endeavour, which ſailed near three years ſince for the South Seas, with Dr. Solander, Mr. Banks, and the Aſtronomers, to obſerve the Tranſit of Venus, arrived the 10th of October laſt at Batavia, all well on board, and purpoſed to ſail from thence in a month from that day.

Notwithſtanding the manœuvre of adminiſtration to keep the the day for proroguing the parliament a ſecret, in order to diſappoint the citizens of their intended plan, to honour the late two honourable priſoners with their company in proceſſion from the Tower to the Manſion-houſe, yet we find, that ſuch is the ſpirit of the times, and the reſentment of the friends of liberty to the arbitrary meaſures of government, that ſurpriſed as they were with the unexpected preparations of the king's going to the houſe, ſome thouſands of reſpectable people, of the com[illegible] and others, aſſembled upon their enlargement.

The Right Hon. the Lord-Mayor, on his arrival at the Manſion-houſe yeſterday, ordered one hundred pounds to be given to the populace, who accompanied his Lordſhip from the Tower thither.

The King of Pruſſia, unwilling to entail a war upon his family, has, by a treaty, agreed to give up Sileſia to the Auſtrians, and he is, in return, to have the remainder of Pruſſia and the city of Dantzick. The Ruſſians, upon promiſe of not being moleſted in the war againſt the Turks, have acceded to the treaty.

By letters received from Adrianople, in Turkey, there is advice, that on the 26th of March laſt ſeveral ſevere ſhocks of an earthquake were felt there, which deſtroyed great part of the city, and the inhabitants were buried in the ruins; that thoſe who remained alive eſcaped to the fields, and pitched tents to preſerve them from the inclemency of the weather, which was at that time very rainy. At the ſame time it happened, the river Mazara roſe conſiderably, and the effects of the earthquake were perceived many leagues out at ſea, and even at the Philippopoli.

The inhabitants of Smyrna have paid homage to the Empreſs of Ruſſia.

The King of Portugal publiſhed an edict the 28th of March, ſtrictly prohibiting the importation of linen or woollen manufactures from France and Holland, and permitting the importation thereof from England or Ireland duty free.

The ſale of part of the eſtates and effects of Lord Holland, will, it is ſaid, be ſhortly followed by a total diſpoſal of them, his Lordſhip being about to retire to Nice in Italy, where he has purchaſed an elegant villa for that purpoſe.

An able financier, and a great miniſter, have told his Majeſty, that annual lotteries will effectually ſecure all his puppets to a ſtated dependance on him, and that Lady Carlton need not be under any fear of their not performing, at all times, according to expectation.

MAY 10. The common-council of Mr. Alderman Wilkes's ward will make him a preſent of a fine chariot and a pair of horſes, if he ſhould be choſen ſheriff for the year enſuing.

Lauchlin Macleane, Eſq; is appointed to ſuperintend the lazarettoes for quarantine at the different ports, with a ſalary of 1000l. per annum, and an allowance of 5 l. per diem for traveling expences.

The lateſt advices from Conſtantinople inform us, that a formidable inſurrection is broke out amongſt the Tartars, north of the Black Sea. This news has thrown the divan at Conſtantinople into the utmoſt conſternation.

The Grand Seignor ſignified his intention, in full divan, of retiring with the moſt faithful of his court to Adrianople; but he was oppoſed, and over-ruled.

Private letters from Vienna mention that an interview is propoſed to take place this ſummer between their ſovereign and the King of Pruſſia.

The Emperor's army, according to field-marſhal Laſcy's plan, is to conſiſt of 211,000 men, including the Croates.

A letter from Copenhagen ſays, "Our King gains upon the hearts of his people approaching to adoration. His whole ſtudy ſeems bent towards making them a great and happy nation. He ſeems to bid fair to realize the idea of a Patriot King.

Yeſterday there was a great Court and Drawing Room at St. James's; Lord North and the Earl of Briſtol had a long conference with his Majeſty.

The ſame day the Hon. Henry St. John, brother to Lord Bolinebroke, kiſſed his Majeſty's hand on being appointed one of the Grooms of the Bed Chamber to his Majeſty, in the room of Colonel Nugent, deceaſed.

In token of the general approbation of the people, of the juſt and ſpirited behaviour of the Lord Mayor and Alderman Oliver, a piece of tranſparent painting, repreſenting the triumphal exit of thoſe Gentlemen from the Tower, was drawn on a ſledge through the principal ſtreets of the City on Wedneſday night, followed by an innumerable concourſe of people.

MAY 11. A gentleman who was in the park on Wedneſday when his Majeſty went to the Houſe, obſerved Pitt, whom he perſonally knew, and ſeveral myrmidons at his heels, with red ſilk in their hats, huzzaing cloſe to his Majeſty's coach; and ever and anon, when his mercenaries had exhauſted their breath upon this glorious occaſion, Pitt, under the King's noſe, animated them aloud with, "You blackguards, why don't ye huzza? "don't you know you are to be paid for it?"

A correſpodent ſays, that public addreſſes were never (before the preſent æra) preſented to a ſtate priſoner in the Tower, which he thinks a proof of our feeling the ſpirit of liberty more ſtrongly than in any preceding period.

The name of the perſon who engaged the weavers at a public houſe, the ſign of the King and Queen, in Norton Falgate, is King; he lives at No. 11, in Chriſpin-ſtreet, Spitalfields. His employer, or employers, it is imagined, will very ſoon be diſcovered.

MAY 11. The city of Dublin are preparing a moſt magnificent preſent for the Lord-Mayor and Mr. Oliver, and is further determined to preſerve the memory of their exemplary conduct, by erecting an obeliſk in one of their beſt ſtreets, with an inſcription that ſhall animate future generations to diſplay the ſame ſpirit in the glorious cauſe of liberty.

Lord Chatham, toward the concluſion of his ſpeech on Wedneſday fortnight, in the Houſe of Lords, on his motion for a diſſolution of parliament, ſaid, "that tho' no man prided himſelf more on his attachment to his native country, the proceedings of thoſe people who called themſelves its governors, had rendered it ſo diſagreeable to him, that was he but ten years younger, he would ſpend the remainder of his days in a country (meaning America) which had already given ſuch earneſts of its independent ſpirit; nor ſhould my advanced age (continued that ſpirited Nobleman) even now prevent me, did not conſiderations of the laſt conſequence (my bodily infirmities) interfere."

The ſame nobleman, ſpeaking of the Shorthand election, ſaid, 'He hoped, that that borough, which had ſo long been the property of Bengal and Indoſtan, would be at laſt found to belong 'to the county of Suſſex.'

Three men of war are ordered to cruize off and about Milford-Haven.

On Thurſday laſt the Printer of the London Evening Poſt, was ſerved with the following notice: London. The King againſt William Witham, attorney, &c. Let the proſecutor, his attorney, clerk in court, ſolicitor, or agent, attend me on Saturday next at eight o'clock in the afternoon, at my chambers in the Inner Temple, to ſhew cauſe why a noli proſequi ſhould not be entered upon the indictment againſt the defendant in this cauſe. Dated this 9th of May, 1771. E. THURLOW.

To night there will be an attendance at the attorney general's chambers, in the Temple, to ſhew cauſe why the King ſhould not grant a Noli Profequi, upon the indictment found at Guildhall, againſt Whittam, the meſſenger. Mr. Adair attends on the part of the city.

It is generally believed that the viſit of his Highneſs the Prince of Mecklenburgh is not merely complimental, an interchange of diſpatches, previous to his embarkation, beſpeaking ſomething more than the mere ceremonials uſual on ſuch an occaſion.

This morning the Right Hon. the Earl of Shelburne ſet out from his houſe in Berkeley ſquare for Italy.

A proteſt againſt the embanking bill, poſted for Durham-yard, ſigned by the Lords Wycombe, King and Tankerville, has been entered into the records of the Houſe of Lords.

The accounts lately in the papers that the premier would ſhortly reſign, is premature; as he declared publicly the other day that he would maintain his poſt, at the hazard of his life. Query, Is obſtinacy a proof of virtue?

Laſt Tueſday night a duel was fought in the Green-Park, between Lord Viſcount Ligonier and Count Altieri, a Piedmonteſe nobleman, in which the latter was wounded. A criminal amour was the unhappy occaſion of this affair.

MAY 13. Advice has been received at the Hague, that a French man of war had ſunk a Dutch Eaſt-Indiaman, near the iſland of Ceylon, in the Eaſt-Indies.

They write from Paris of the 6th inſtant, that a very daring manifeſto had juſt been delivered into the King's own hand, by a perſon unknown, who, when he had preſented it (which was at the time of the King's going to court) immediately mixed with the crowd, and got off undiſcovered.

The ſtate of the national debt as it ſtood the 5th of January laſt, amounts to 128,998,119l. 8s. 2d. halfpenny; and the annual intereſt and other charges attending the ſame, amounts to 4,581,317l. 8s. 8d.

This morning, Sir Harbord Harbord, bart. member of parliament for the city of Norwich, waited on the Right Hon. the Lord-Mayor to know when his lordſhip would chuſe to be attended with an addreſs from that city.

By the Bill to prevent the counterfeiting Copper Coin, it is enacted, "That after the 24th of June, 1771, any perſon that ſhall coin or counterfeit any of the copper monies of this realm, commonly called an half-penny or farthing, every ſuch perſon and his abettors ſhall be adjudged a felon; and alſo, that after the time limited as above, every perſon buying, ſelling, receiving, or paying any counterfeit copper money, not defaced down or cut in pieces, at or for a lower rate or value than the ſame, by its denomination, doth or ſhall import, or was counterfeited, for every ſuch offence ſuch perſon or perſons ſhall be adjudged guilty of felony."

At an attendance laſt night on the attorney-general (by adjournment from Saturday evening), purſuant to a ſummons for that purpoſe, the indictment and affidavit of the defendant Whittam was read, when Mr. Adair, council for the proſecutor, proceeded to ſhew cauſe why a noli proſequi ſhould not be entered. The exerciſe of that prerogative, he obſerved, altho' veſted in the hands of the attorney-general according to the laws of the land, yet the practice was of a modern date; that lord chief juſtice Holt thought it hard ſuch a power ſhould be veſted in the attorney-general. He quoted caſes to prove his poſition, and conſidered the defendant as having no legal authority to execute the warrant of the ſpeaker; and that the charge in the indictment was admitted by the affidavit. He contended, that there did not appear any thing upon the face of the indictment, oppreſſive and unfit for a diſcuſſion in the court of juſtice, or which could afford any reaſon for Mr. Attorney's entering a noli proſequi.

Mr. Adair then ſtated the affidavit, and concluded.

There being no council for the defendant, the attorney-general spoke as follows:—" It is not fit the king should interpose as a profecutor of the meſſenger of the houſe of commons, who had the authority of the houſe for what he did. As it had been ſtated, the order of the houſe was for the ſerjeant or deputy-ſerjeant to take the profecutor into cuſtody. A doubt ariſes whether the ſpeaker could authoriſe any other perſon but the ſerjeant or deputy-ſerjeant, which is a queſtion of law; but it has been the conſtant practice to employ the meſſengers upon the orders of the houſe." And after ſtating a few other diſtinctions he concluded, " that it was not fit or decent for the name of the crown to ſtand as profecutor of a meſſenger of the houſe of commons, who acted by their authority."

Mr. Adair replied (amongſt other arguments), " That if the king withdrew his name from the proſecution, it would operate the ſame as a pardon, which would be an injury to the real proſecutor, the crown being only nominal. That it would be extremely proper it ſhould come before a court of law, who, if they were of opinion that it was competant authority, would acquit the defendant."

The attorney-general then ſaid, " I do not place it in tenderneſs to Mr. Whittam, or the privileges of the houſe of commons, but it is indecent that the name of the crown ſhould continue as the proſecutor of a meſſenger of the houſe of commons."

The nolle proſequi was accordingly entered.

The affair which happened on Tueſday laſt in the Green Park, between Lord Viſcount Legonier and Count Altieri, was occaſioned, as we have been informed, by the event related in the following ſtory.—Lord Legonier had frequently obſerved inſtances of levity in his lady's behaviour when in company with the count, and thought proper to give her ladyſhip ſome gentle reproofs on the occaſion; intimating, that, however unqueſtionable her virtue might be, her reputation was at ſtake. This had no other effect but to alarm her pride; her conduct remained the ſame. His Lordſhip had, ſome time after this, been detained in town by buſineſs, which would not permit him to return with his lady to their country ſeat, in the neighbourhood of which the count had taken up his reſidence. It happened laſt week, that a window in a lower apartment of his Lordſhip's country houſe had been found open early in the morning. This circumſtance occaſioned mutual upbraidings between the ſervants, when each obſtinately denying the charge of neglect, one of them, an old ſervant, was bent on making a further diſcovery. Accordingly, he took the reſolution of ſitting up the next night to watch in this apartment, and about midnight, to his aſtoniſhment, he ſaw his lady enter the room, and, (on a ſignal given by the count) admit him through the window, and conduct him up ſtairs, where he remained till about four o'clock in the morning, and then departed by the ſame avenue at which he entered. In the morning the ſervant came to town, and acquainted his Lord with the important diſcovery, who immediately haſted to the Coffee-houſe frequented by the count, and charging him with the injury he had done to his honour, inſiſted on ſatisfaction at the point of his ſword. The count neither denied the charge, nor declined the ſatisfaction required. They repaired to the Park without ſeconds, and ſoon after they had engaged, his Lordſhip dropping his ſword, his antagoniſt ſuppoſed him wounded, and deſired to know if he required further ſatisfaction. His Lordſhip replied, that he did not deſire to live, but he would not die cowardly. On reſuming the conflict, the count received a wound in the ſword arm, and two other ſlight wounds, and then dropped his ſword. Lord Legonier attended him to the ſurgeon, where his wounds were dreſſed.

A correſpondent has ſent us the following further particulars reſpecting Lord Viſcount Legonier and count Altieri: As ſoon as the duel was over his Lordſhip went home, put himſelf in deep mourning, and ſat in a dark room; he then ſent for his lady, who attempted to ſpeak, but he prevented her, ſaying, " I once, madam, valued you more than my life, but that is now over; I ſent for you to take a ſolemn farewell, and from this fatal hour ſhall think of you as one dead." It is thought this fatal affair has impaired his Lordſhip's underſtanding, as he ſeems to be in a manner delirious. Some ſad effects of the unhappy lady's crime, beſides thoſe at firſt apprehended (which decency, however, permits us not to mention) have added to the affliction of her injured Lord.

Count Altieri, who was wounded in a duel with Lord Legonier, is nephew to Prince Maſſerano, the Spaniſh Ambaſſador.

MAY 14. The lady of a certain baronet was lately diſcovered at a bagnio with her gallant.

Lady Legonier is the daughter of Mr. George Pitt, late Ambaſſador at Turin. She is now at her father's; and he was but juſt returned from a tour to the continent the very day on which ſhe was ſo very diſgracefully ſent back.

Yeſterday afternoon a jury met at the Star and Garter, in Pall-Mall, to ſit on the body of Jenniſon Shaftoe, Eſq; who yeſterday morning arrived from Newmarket races, where he was ſuppoſed to have been unſucceſsful, and in an agony of mind, ſhot himſelf.

A certain great lady was ſo chagrined by the conduct of the ſcum of the earth, and their adherents, the mob, on Wedneſday laſt, that it is imagined ſhe will not recover the doſe for ſome months to come.

This day the Right Hon. the Lord-Mayor nominated the following gentlemen to ſerve the office of Sheriff for the year enſuing: Neighbour Frith, ſilk-thrower; Thomas Penn, weaver; James Maſten, grocer; Thomas Comyn, vintner; William Savage, grocer; John Curſon, vintner; Richard Trowbridge, plumber; James Savage, cooper; and Philip Rowden, vintner, Eſquires.

In the memory of any living lawyer, there never was ſo little buſineſs done in any of the Courts, as during this term. The reaſon given by the attorneys for this failure of employment is not irrational: They ſay that the late attacks upon the characters of the Judges has determined moſt people to have recourſe to arbitration, and to ſtarve the profeſſion.

MAY 15. It is ſaid, that the ſum propoſed to be raiſed by the merchants of this city, by way of loan, is intended for the joint uſe of their Swediſh and Pruſſian Majeſties.

The King has been pleaſed to conſtitute and appoint Sir Ralph Payne, K. B. his Majeſty's captain general and governor in chief over all his Majeſty's Leeward Caribbee iſlands in America, chancellor, vice-admiral and ordinary of the ſame.

This day the Biſhop of Cheſter took the oaths at the court of Chancery, to qualify himſelf as preceptor to his Royal Highneſs the Prince of Wales and Biſhop of Oſnaburgh.

We are informed by one of the Common-Councilmen of this city, that a motion is intended to be made the next court day, that the picture of his Majeſty, now in Guildhall, may be taken down, and that a picture of the preſent worthy Lord-Mayor may be put up in its ſtead.

MAY 16. Admiral Elphinſtone is to have the command of a ſquadron, with five bomb veſſels, which are fitting out with all expedition in the ports of Ruſſia, and are deſtined for the Archipelago.

As ſoon as Count Orlow arrives to take upon him the command of the fleet at preſent in the Archipelago, he will endeavour to force the paſſage of the Dardanelles.

Yeſterday, about ten o'clock, arrived a courier from the Hague with diſpatches to the Dutch Ambaſſador, Count de Welderen, which were immediately communicated to his Majeſty, and an anſwer ſent off with all poſſible expedition: From which it is imagined ſome very extraordinary affairs are on the tapis.

Conſiderable betts are laid in the city, that a rupture takes place between the French and Dutch within ſix months from this date; in which both the courts of London and Madrid will by their treaties be obliged to take part.

We can inform the public from the beſt authority, that Lord Bute has not been out of London theſe three months.

If this is not the time for the Dog-ſtar to rage at the weſt end of the town, the ſtar of Venus certainly does. The laſt week diſcovered no fewer than three intrigues. One is very well known to the public already, viz. that of lady Legonier.

Lady R. was lately detected, by her brave and gallant huſband, within the curtains in cloſe converſation with a youthful lover.

The lady of a certain Iriſh Lord has eloped with her gallant, the celebrated Lord W. G.

Two more diſcoveries are ſaid to have been made between four and five o'clock yeſterday morning.

It is computed that no fewer than nineteen perſonages (including lords, knights, and 'ſquires) may be counted in the polite neighbourhood of St. James's, who have been cormeted ſince the middle of laſt February.—This ſpring has been fruitful in nothing but horns.

It is rumoured, that the Chevalier D'Eon was lately ſeen at Calais under a ſtrong guard.

It is ſaid that there are 60,000l. and upwards, to ſettle upon the policies relative to the Chevalier D'Eon.

Extract of letter from Ireland, May 4.

" Affairs here are in a very tickliſh ſituation, the Lord Lieutenant dares not ſtir from the Caſtle; a guard of the Military conſtantly patroling Dublin ſtreets. The late Speaker (Mr. Ponſonby) the Marquis of Kildare, Charles Lucas, and Flood, are idolized by us, as much as Croſby, Wilkes, and Oliver, are by you. Our Courtiers here are in hourly terror of their lives, as the Iriſh mob are remarkably deſperate; a patriotic Chief Magiſtrate here would not long remain a State Priſoner; matters in the country are really terrible."

MAY 17. In the courſe of laſt Seſſions his Majeſty went five times to the Houſe of Peers: Beſides Bills that were ſigned by Commiſſion, the royal aſſent were given to 204 Public and Private Bills, amongſt which were a greater number of Road and Incloſure Bills, than ever was known in one Seſſion.

Orders are given by the Houſe of Commons, that there be prepared to be laid before next Seſſions, an account of all goods, wares, and merchandizes, exported from, or imported into, that part of Great-Britain called Scotland, from Chriſtmas 1765 to 1767, diſtinguiſhing each year, and each place.

Wedneſday Admiral Pye ſet out for Portſmouth, to take upon him the command of the Fleet there.

Tueſday the Society of Supporters of the Bill of Rights met at the London Tavern. Ten new Members were elected, and ſeveral ſubſcriptions received. The Society came to ſeveral reſolutions, and the augmentation of their fund.

It is reported that an action for 100,000l. damages each will be brought by the Lord-Mayor, and Aldermen Wilkes and Oliver, againſt the preſident of a certain club.

MAY 21. Seamen's wages at Liverpool, are from 3l. to 3l. 10s. per month, yet ſo great is the ſcarcity of ſeamen at this time, in that port, that the Merchants cannot ſend their ſhips to ſea.

Two days after the amour between a foreigner of diſtinction and an Engliſh Lady was diſcovered, his Lordſhip ſent a Bank Note of 500l. to his Lady, incloſed in a letter, in which his Lordſhip ſaid, before that ſum ſhall be expended, a ſettlement ſhould be made ſuitable to the preſent circumſtances, and not unworthy the acceptance of a woman, who was once the object of his moſt tender affection.

This day ſe'nnight died, at his ſeat at Broomhall, in Scotland, the Right Hon. Charles Bruce, Earl of Elgin and Kincardin, Baron Bruce of Kinloſs and Torry.

MAY 22. The Hon. Capt. St. John, is appointed to the command of his Majeſty's ſhip Reaſonable, of 64 guns, a guardſhip at Plymouth, in the room of Capt. Suckling.

[illegible] the day in which the Chevalier D'Eon diſappeared, he was to have fought a duel with a gentleman; but as he was going to the ſcene of action, he was ſeized by ſix men, who put him on board a boat in the river, in which he was conveyed, as it is thought, over to France.

It is ſaid, that Lady Ligonier is retired to Abbeville in France.

It is ſaid there is a negociation now on foot between the Courts of Verſailles and Madrid, for ceding the iſland of Corſica to the latter.

MAY 23. It is confidently aſſerted, that ſome very ſtrong efforts will be made the next ſeſſion of parliament, for introducing an American repreſentation into the Grand Council of the nation.

Yeſterday there was but a thin Levee at St. James's, and no Council, after the breaking up of which Lord North had a long conference with his Majeſty on important affairs.

The Dutch are now building at Fluſhing, Amſterdam, and other ports, about 20 ſhips of the line.

It is ſaid that advice is received of the Spaniſh ſquadron in the Archipelago having acted offenſively againſt the Ruſſian fleet. Four men of war from 60 to 70 guns each, ſailed from Ferrol up the Mediterranean, the 12th inſtant, as ſuppoſed deſtined to join the Spaniſh ſquadron.

The head-dreſſes of the ladies in the year 1771, is ſo enormouſly high, that a plan is ſaid to be in agitation to raiſe the roof of the hackney coaches to prevent the ladies being incumbred in riding.

MAY 25. By a private letter from Hamburgh, we are told, that a rupture is expected between the Emperor and the King of Pruſſia.

A correſpondent of undoubted veracity informs us, that he ſaw the Chevalier D'Eon, two days after he was advertiſed to be miſſing, paſs over the way to Charing-croſs in the middle of the day, from whence the public may be convinced that there is a ſcheme in the whole affair, from beginning to end, to anſwer ſome ſiniſter purpoſe.

MAY 27. Yeſterday was filed in the King's-bench Office, a declaration on behalf of Lord Legonier, againſt a Piedmonteſe Nobleman, for crim. con. with Lady Legonier, wherein the damages are laid at 20,000l. Mr. Dunning was retained for Lord Legonier immediately upon the diſcovery of the cauſe of action, as was Mr. Wedderburne for the defendant.

It is ſaid that a reconciliation has taken place between Lord and Lady Groſvenor, and all farther proceſs of law entirely ſtopped.

In conſequence of a petition of ſundry merchants, &c. trading to the Baltick, on account of the plague having ſubſided, his Majeſty's order in council is publiſhed in laſt Saturday's gazette, that the quarantine upon all ſhips from Dantzick, or any other place in Royal and Ducal Pruſſia, Pomerania, Samogitia, Courland, and Livonia, be taken off under certain proviſoes therein mentioned.

Saturday a gentleman of conſiderable property, and who poſſeſſed ſeveral very lucrative employments at Court, hanged himſelf in his bed-chamber in Vine-ſtreet, Piccadilly.

MAY 28. The accompliſhed Earl of Suffolk, who has been very aſſiduouſly learning French, in order to qualify himſelf for Secretary of State, and who excuſed himſelf from accepting that office when Lord Weymouth reſigned, becauſe he was ignorant of the French language, is now very ſolicitous to ſucceed Lord Halifax.

The expected alterations and arrangements which have been for ſome time negotiating, were intended to have been finiſhed before Lord Bute came home, in order that it might appear to the world his Lordſhip had no concern in them; but the extreme illneſs of the Biſhop of Durham, and the inſatiable rapacity of the Bloomſbury gang to ſeize upon every thing, brought his Lordſhip over before the ſcheme could be executed. In caſe the Biſhop of Durham dies of his preſent illneſs, which is probable, the reſolution of the Bloomſbury gang is to appoint the Biſhop of Litchfield, firſt couſin to the Duke of Bridgewater, Biſhop of Durham. The Earl of Bute is for the Biſhop of London.

Extract of a letter from Peterſburgh, April 20.

" A meſſenger from the firſt army brought here juſt now the advice of a new advantage on the 24th of laſt month. General Major Weiſmann paſſed the Danube near Tuloz, with 800 grenadiers, in order to cover the attack General Potemkin was to make at the ſame time upon the fortreſs of Torno, on this ſide of the river. Tho' Tulozi was defended by 3000 men and ſeveral batteries, General Weiſmann attacked it, drove out the garriſon, took ſeveral priſoners, nailed up all the cannon of the town which he could not take with him, and purſued the enemy five werſts from the town. The Grand Vizir being encamped at the diſtance of 25 or 30 werſts from thence, detached a body of troops on board ſeven large ſhips to deſtroy thoſe veſſels, which had ſerved to tranſport our troops over the river; but our's deſcried afar off this flotilla, attacked this ſuccour alſo, which they perceived to be without cannon, ſeized ſix of them? After which, as our intention has been only to make a diverſion to the Turks in that part, Gen. Weiſmann repaſſed the Danube ſafely, with his detachment, at Iſmael, his firſt poſt."

MAY 30. The Earl of Halifax's ſtate, has been determined ſome time. He is to go out. A bad ſtate of health is the pretended cauſe; but there are other reaſons.

Yeſterday there was but a thin Levee at St. James's, and no Council: Lord North had a long conference with his Majeſty on plantation affairs. William Martin, Eſq; one of the Sheriffs for the City of London and County of Middleſex, was preſented to his Majeſty, on account of his late marriage, and was graciouſly received.

Yeſterday his Excellency the Envoy Extraordinary from the King and Republic of Poland, had a long conference with the Earl of Rochford, on the ſubject of ſome diſpatches received from his Court.

Monday a courier arrived from Madrid at the Spaniſh Ambaſſador's. His Excellency went immediate to the French Ambaſſador's, and had a conference with him. Soon after, a meſſenger was diſpatched to Paris, from which it is conjectured, that there is ſome ſcheme in agitation, which may prove diſagreeable to England, or at leaſt to the preſent Miniſtry.

Tueſday night the Right Hon. the Earl of Effingham, arrived in town from Peterſburgh, having for ſome time been a volunteer in her Imperial Majeſty's ſervice.

Great preparations are making at Portſmouth for a grand Naumachia, or mock engagement of the 40 ſhips of war now lying in harbour there, at which Lord Sandwich and other Lords Commiſſioners of the Admiralty, will be preſent, as well as a great number of nobility and gentry.

It is aſſerted that the French Court, at the inſtance of ſome great perſons, has at laſt agreed to make a compenſation to General Paoli for the eſtates which that General formerly poſſeſſed in the Iſland of Corſica, ſaid to be worth 90,000l.

It is ſaid that Lady Groſvenor has proved her recrimination. The ſucceſs of her Ladyſhip's attack on his Lordſhip will be very alarming to many men of faſhion who neglect their Ladies; for if the facts are proved, they will be in bar of any ſentence of ſeperation, although any thing may happen to be proved againſt a Lady; the law holding, that perſons of gallantry are fitteſt to live together.

On the reſignation of Lord Halifax, who is to be ſucceeded by the Earl of Suffolk, we are well informed, that the Duke of Grafton will be appointed Privy Seal.

Lord Weymouth, it is certain will go to Ireland on the return of Lord Townſhend, for whom the Ordnance is deſigned, with the Army appointments, as alſo a vacant Ribband.

The prices of teas will be conſiderably lowered ſhortly; the late ſale at the India warehouſes having been, by order of the Directors, much greater and cheaper than for ſome time paſt.

MAY 31. A few days ſince, upon an examination of one [illegible] Henry, another of the attendants ſaid, that the perſon accuſed did not ſtrike the Prince. The Prince of Wales being preſent, ſaid, pray Mrs. ——— do not aſſert any ſuch thing, you know ſhe did ſtrike my brother; but you are both Scotch women, and will ſay any thing to protect each other.

JUNE 1. It is ſaid that Lord Halifax on his reſignation is to have a penſion of 3000l. per ann. for his ſervices.

There is a rumour, that the Right Hon. Lord Chief Juſtice de Grey will reſign upon a penſion, on account of the bad ſtate of his health.

Some time ſince, the Rev. Mr. Horne was propoſed, approved, and admitted a Member of a Society of Gentlemen of the firſt character and fortune in the city, who meet at Bignell's coffee-houſe, in St. Michael's-alley, Corn-hill. At the laſt meeting, Mr. Horne's conduct was taken into conſideration, and it was agreed, that Mr. Horne was unworthy of continuing a member, upon which his expulſion was moved, and carried unanimouſly.

It is aſſured that Mr. Horne is to have the firſt vacant Prebendary of Worceſter.

Extract of a Letter from Amſterdam, dated May 28.

" About two o'clock this day, the following account was received from the Hague: yeſterday at a general review, ſeveral loaded arms were diſcharged from the Swiſs corps. The great favourite, the Duke of Wolfenbuttle, received a ſhot through the heel of his ſhoe. A Captain of the guards was dangerouſly wounded, and many perſons on the field were hurt. His Highneſs the Prince of Orange got off in a precipitate manner. We are waiting for more particulars, before we ſhall be able to judge about the cauſe of this miſchief."

JUNE 3. Friday Sir Joſeph Mawbey gave a grand entertainment, at his houſe at Vauxhall, to the Lord Mayor, Mr. Wilkes, Dr. Wilſon, Mr. Bull, Dr. Adair, and ſeveral other Gentlemen of the Bill of Rights: They expreſſed great ſatisfaction with Mr. Wilkes's conduct, and determined to ſupport him to the utmoſt of their power.

On Saturday a citation was returned into the Biſhop of London's Court, for Lady Legonier to anſwer the charge laid againſt her for crim. con.

The ſame day a certain Baronet was cited into the Biſhop of London's court by his Lady for conjugal infidelity; and ſhe has given orders to her Proctor to proceed to the obtaining a divorce.

The London Gazette of May 29, gives a melancholy account of the ſtarving condition of the inhabitants of Tirol, Switzerland, and all that country; and, if poſſible, thoſe if Ratiſbon is ſtill more deplorable, having but ſmall hopes of eſcaping a famine. At Augſburgh, the poorer ſort of people are reduced to the neceſſity of ſubſiſting on a kind of bread made of the bark of beech and alder.

JUNE 4. The Viceroyſhip of Ireland now lies between Lord Gower and Lord Weymouth.

There will be no deputation of Lords Juſtices, it is ſaid, as has been uſual in Ireland, during the abſence of the Lord Lieutenant, but the preſent Lord will be immediately ſucceeded by a reſident Viceroy.

We are informed from Portſmouth, that great preperations are making for a grand naumachia, or mock-engagement, &c. Thus, the money which the landholders of this kingdom are to raiſe, by paying an additional thilling in the pound, and the millions which the people in general have granted to government for the ſole purpoſe of vindicating the honour of the crown, and preſerving the rights of the nation, are to be ridiculouſly and contemptibly ſquandered away in mock-engagements. To what a wretched condition is poor England reduced! all is become a mockery. By the late ignominious convention with Spain, the Miniſter hath produced a mock-peace: nay, indeed, have we not a mock-miniſtry, a mock parliament, and a mock every thing? Shall the patience of the people be thus mocked for ever?

JUNE 5. When the firſt report of L. Legonier's infidelity was carried to the Queen's Palace, their Majeſties were at cards with the Dutcheſs of Ancaſter. The King, who ſincerely loves Lady Legonier, was much affected with the news; on which her M[illegible]

…ly observed, that it was no wonder such things happened, …en the greatest encouragement was given to places, which …re only calculated to increase female licentiousness, (alluding …a certain place of polite entertainment.) Her Majesty then …ned to the Dutchess of Ancaster, and said, "and there is the …rie too, another pretty place." The Dutchess then attempted …defend the last mentioned society, but was stopped short by …t Majesty, who said, "it is a very silly institution (to say the … of it) my Lady Dutchess, and I desire to hear no more of it.".

…aft night the Manfion-House was illuminated with upwards …000 glass lamps.

JUNE 6. Yesterday morning about half an hour past four …ock, her Majesty was taken in labour, notice of which was …ediately sent to her Royal Highness the Princess Dowager of …es, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Secretaries of State, …the Ladies of the Bed-Chamber; and about six o'clock her …esty was safely delivered of a Prince. This happy event was …unced to the public by the ringing of bells, hoisting of flags, …firing the Tower guns.

At a Court of Common-Council held yesterday, a report from …committee appointed to take opinions on the legality of an …prisonment by a vote of either House of Parliament was read, …it was resolved to lay the opinions before the livery assembled …Common-Hall on midsummer-day next.

It is said, that a certain Earl has offered to take upon him the …ce of Secretary of State, at one third less salary than any of …predecessors, rather than not be employed by government.

Within these few days, the Lord Chancellor, it is said, has …very frequent visits to Lord Camden, both in town and at …eat in Kent; the latter nobleman has also had several confe…ces with his Majesty very lately, from whence various con…tures arise.

We hear that the people of Ireland have entered a protest against …itting a certain nobleman as Viceroy, who is known to have …ed his finances by gaming, and who could be sent over with …other intent than to repair his broken fortunes at the expence …n oppressed country.

It is said, that a certain noble Lord on foreign service, has …put under an arrest by his superior officer.

…n article in yesterday's Holland mail, dated Madrid, says, …some letters which they have received from Cadiz, confirm, …the English have been dislodged from David island by the …niards, which gives room to fear some new troubles between two nations.

Yesterday, at a Court of Common-Council, the Lord-Mayor …ived the news of her Majesty's happy delivery of a Prince; …n which his Lordship desired an address to the King on the …asion, and the same was soon prepared by a committee ap…nted for that purpose. We are informed, that the purport of …address is, that the Citizens of London are as loyally attached …his Majesty, as any of his subjects within his dominions; that …y equally participate in the joy of every accession of domestic …city to his Majesty, and additional strength to the nation; …t they sincerely wish there may never be wanting one of the …e of the House of Brunswick to fill the throne, who were …ften at the glorious revolution to defend those constitutional …hts then declared, as well as the great charter of liberty.

JUNE 8. It is said Mr. Aldrman Plumb and Mr. Alderman …irkman are the two gentlemen fixed upon to stand a poll a…ainst Mr. Wilkes and Mr. Bull for the offices of Sheriffs.

Yesterday the Sheriffs, with the City Remembrancer, attended …gain at St. James's; when his Majesty was pleased to appoint Wednesday next, at two o'clock, to receive the congratulatory …ad…ress upon the birth of another Prince.

Yesterday the Lord-Mayor received a letter by the Peny-post, containing most audacious threats against his Majesty, and against his Lordship, if something be not immediately done to reduce the price of provisions. His Lordship sent the letter … of Rochford for his inspection, and to be laid before his Majesty.

We have been favoured with the following authentic intelligence by a person just arrived from Paris:----Paris now represents a scene of the utmost desolation; the Bastile being crammed so full of unfortunate people, and the excessive heat of the weather, has caused the gaol distemper to rage to such a shocking degree, that fifty or sixty of the prisoners die in a day. This distemper is of so centagious a nature that it has communicated itself into the different parts of the city, which causes the poorer sort of people to die like sheep; numbers are also starving, and prompted by hunger, they commit the greatest outrages; breaking into the houses of the bakers, and tearing the bread out of the oven half baked, and carrying off every thing that is eatable elsewhere, the civil power not being able to impede their course. The King is deaf to all this distress which he has occasioned, indulging himself with the company of Madame Barré, going a hunting, &c. but it is the opinion of every thinking man there, that a speedy revolution cannot fail to take place, as it is daily expected to hear of the King's assassination; hardly any of the nobility now go to Court, and none of the Princes of the blood. Such noblemen as are in favour are those of the vilest characters, and hardly ever dare shew themselves openly out about the person of the King.

It was not yesterday fixed who should be chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster. Lord Suffolk, Mr. Wedderburne, &c. have solicited it for Lord Trevor, to whom, it is said, Lord North has offered it. Lord Gower, Mr. Rigby, &c. have solicited it for the Duke of Bridgwater.

We hear Lord Suffolk is appointed Secretary of State.

His Majesty was very near being killed at the foot of Westminster bridge, on his return from the review, on Thursday, by one of his footmen, who rode foremost, striking a horse in a coach that stood in the way, on the head, which made the beast back with the carriage, by which means it broke through the pannels of his Majesty's chaise, and very much frightened him, tho' he escaped unhurt.

We hear that the Earl of Bute lies dangerously ill in the country.

EDINBURGH, May 22. His Majesty's Commission is come down, appointing the Earl of Glasgow to represent his Majesty's person as High Commissioner in the General Assembly.
